1- Background of PPIF

Punjab Population Innovation Fund is a not-for-profit, public-sector Company, registered under Section 42 of the Companies Ordinance, 1984. PPIF has been established to finance innovative approaches to deliver family planning services with a view to achieving the Punjab Growth Strategy's objective of reducing fertility to couples' desired levels. The fund spearheads locally responsive, scalable and sustainable family planning and reproductive health initiatives. PPIF-enabled interventions would play a critical role in accelerating Fertility Decline by increasing Contraceptive Prevalence in Punjab, a province which houses half of the national population of women with unmet need for contraception.

Population Welfare Department (PWD), Government of Punjab (GoP) has developed a centralized SBC strategy under Punjab Family Planning Program (PFPP) to facilitate stewardship of Social and Behavior Change (SBC) for family planning and reproductive health. The Punjab SBC strategy outlines a Multi-Pronged Strategy aimed at promoting healthy decision making and behavior change related to FP/RH across various levels of influence. One of the key interventions outlined is the strategic use of mass media to drive behavioral change on a larger scale. To support this objective, PPIF has been tasked with developing a Drama Series, leveraging mass media as an effective tool for communication.

Mass media communication tools such as Television has one of the highest outreaches of any communication channel. Its weekly viewership stands at 76.2% for Pakistan of which the major contribution is through public channels whereas private channels also have a significant outreach with 14% and less viewership through cable and satellite mediums. With the exponential outreach of television and broadband, an average drama is viewed by more than 8 Million¹ through TV and 2 Million through social media. These figures show the scope of using drama serial to improve knowledge and communication about family planning among the masses. According to PDHS 2017-18, women and men who are exposed to family planning messages through various media sources overwhelmingly think that the messages are effective in promoting family planning.² Dramas serials in Pakistan have been effectively utilized to showcase our religious, cultural and societal norms and practices. However, family planning and population programming have rarely been discussed, at least in recent times, through the medium of drama serials.

5- Description of Services

Intervention:

PPIF aims to develop Drama series comprises on 15 episodes. A drama Series is a set of related episodes that follow a continuous theme or concept, but each episode has its own self-contained storyline/ individual plots and it resolves a particular conflict or story within its runtime. PPIF drama series will focus on specific message addressing the family planning and reproductive health in each episode. By portraying relatable stories and characters, the series seeks to normalize conversations about family planning and provide accurate information. The key messages suggested to inform the plot of each episode are as follows, however, the list is not exhaustive, and any new idea based on research will also be considered

Key Messages

1. Birth Spacing: A minimum of 3 years between births improves maternal and infant health, reducing pregnancy complications. The first 1,000 days are crucial for a child's growth; adequate birth spacing supports better physical and mental development. Family planning enhances reproductive health, reduces complications, prevents unsafe abortions, and empowers women to be ready for pregnancy.
2. Breaking Social Stigma: Addressing traditional values and misconceptions about family planning is essential to encourage discussions and improve access to services, especially for young couples. Open conversations about contraception can dispel myths, promote safe practices, and prevent unwanted pregnancies. Educating communities about common misconceptions helps alleviate fear and encourages the use of contraception.
3. Access to Family Planning Services: Easy access to information and services allows individuals to choose methods that suit their needs, promoting informed decision-making.
4. Youth Friendly SRH Services Providing accessible, youth-oriented family planning services ensures young people and young couples receive the necessary knowledge and services. Early marriages often lead to uninformed reproductive decisions, increasing risks for young women and their babies.
5. Conducive Environment: Involving local leaders and influencers in family planning discussions normalizes the topic and breaks down barriers to access. Family planning gives women control over their reproductive health, enabling them to balance education, career, and family life.
6. Male Engagement: Involving men in family planning discussions supports women's health and reduces the risk of unintended pregnancies through shared decision-making. Family planning should be a joint decision; It also allows both partners to be more engaged in making decisions that affect their family's well-being.
7. Economic Empowerment: Family planning is a powerful tool for economic empowerment. Investing in family planning services, ensure that families are better prepared to meet the financial demands of raising children, leading to greater overall economic stability. Family planning reduces anxiety around unintended pregnancies, allowing for mentally prepared parenting that benefits children's well-being.
